MEET THE ARTIST

Anna began her experience in London working in hospitality as an hotel event planner in Kensington.

During the pandemic she rediscovered her shelved passion for painting and began collaborating with shops and restaurants, growing her online audience and establishing her own brand AnnaObert Illustration, thus leaving her job in hospitality.

“I always carry watercolours, black ink and a sketchbook with me, no matter where I go.

I love to portray when I am on public transport to isolate myself from the noise of the city, at the café with my friends and recently I have started to stop people in the street so that I can portray them in 5 minutes.”

SKETCHING

Among the different design types, Anna offers an option for all needs.

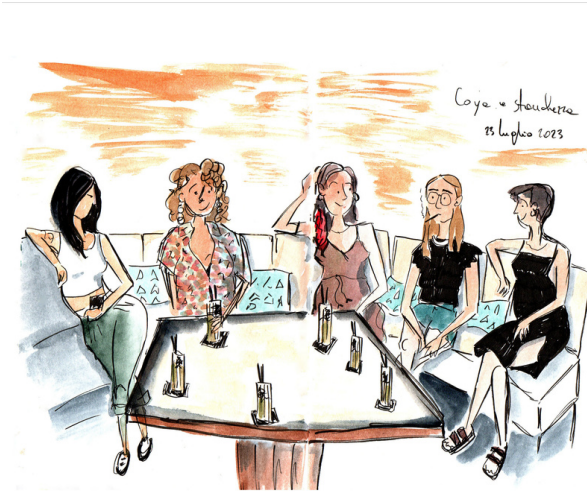

Pose: subjects are photographed and then drawn and coloured on the spot. The drawing will be precise and detailed and the colouring more accurate. This type of drawing takes approximately 20 to 30 minutes per subject to realise. Unfinished drawings are then finished in the studio and delivered later.

Quick one: Subjects are asked to hold a pose for a maximum of 5 minutes, thus giving the minimum time necessary to capture the outstanding features of the subjects. The drawing will have more of a 'sketch' effect and the watercolouring will then be given later, again in a maximum of 5/7 minutes. The subject will then have its drawing in a maximum of 10 minutes.
